

Viva Flowers

INVITING: The window of Viva the flower store in Angaston.

Viva la Alabaster

ALABASTER products are accessible six-days-a-week at Viva.

"I had been looking for somewhere to permanently house my range," said owner Bridget Laucke. "And now I have found the perfect spot."

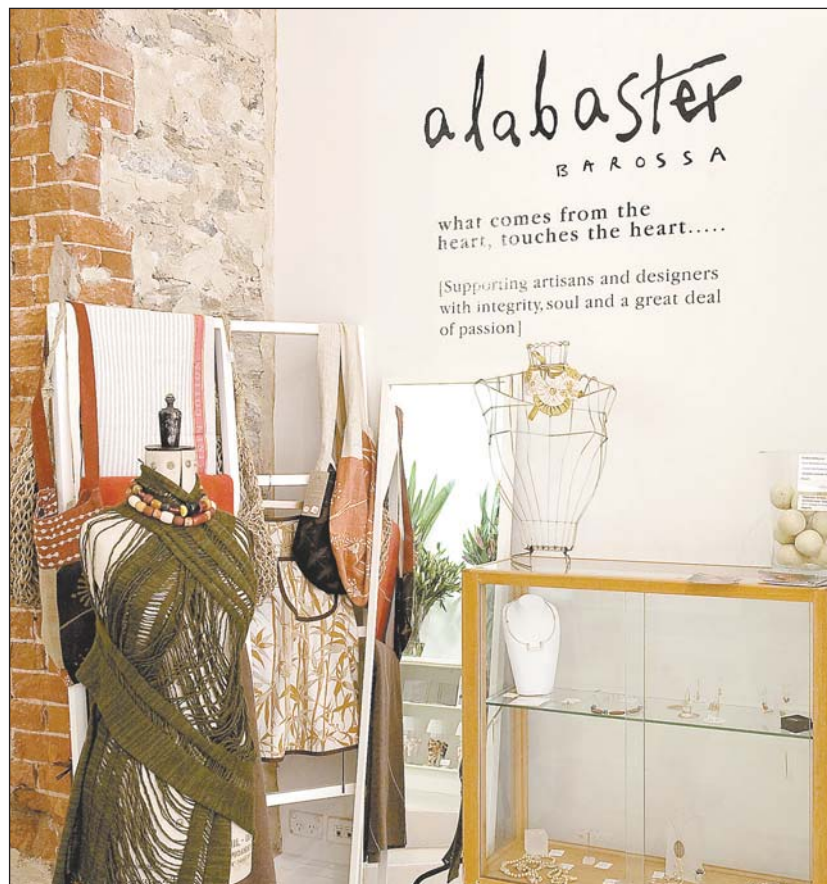

"The range consists entirely of items made from designers and artisans who are sensitive to the environment, the cultures they employ or have a very personal passion in what they are trying to achieve."

"While I believe the products have a broad appeal, they are beautiful because they all contain the essence of their maker - a lot of love goes into each item."

The 'alabaster' range includes organic body creams, handbags, jewellery, soaps, hats, woollen products, clothes and porcelain, and stocks brands such as Bholu, Mud porcelain, Est Australia olive oil products and Oiko's amazing hand dyed handbags.

And local designers are also encouraged to be involved in the 'alabaster' philosophy which sells on behalf of well-known Gomersal silversmith, Kirsty MacKirdy, emerging fashion designer Karina Semmler, jeweller Audrey Harnett and ceramicist Susanna Brown.

BROAD APPEAL: A sample of the alabaster products at Viva.

A black and white photograph of a bride standing in a white wedding dress, holding a bouquet of flowers. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.

BAROSSA PHOTO COMPANY
TONY TERVOERT

"unique, exclusive and very personal wedding photography....."

p. 85624528
www.barossaphotocompany.com.au

mb0314781